Step into your new role with confidence at #GartnerIO

Are you stepping into a new infrastructure or operations position? Gartner IT Infrastructure, Operations & Cloud Strategies Conference offers focused New To Role sessions to help you chart a clear path, accelerate your impact and avoid common pitfalls. Join peers and industry experts to sharpen your strategy and leadership skills from Day 1.

Featured New To Role Sessions:

- Being Comfortable in the Hot Seat: Having Cybersecurity Conversations With Executives

Join this session to find out how to leverage outcome-driven metrics to support your security program. We cover three challenging scenarios, and how to articulate the risk at the appropriate level and provide the right level of risk awareness to your executive leadership and board of directors.

- Leadership Vision 2026 Infrastructure and Operations

This session focuses on the key challenges and trends impacting infrastructure and operations, and what leadership actions will generate success in 2026 and beyond. We address how you must work with leaders, stakeholders and customers to understand the relative business value of the services your team delivers today or could deliver, going forward. I&O leaders should use these insights to enhance their strategic vision, delivery programs and prioritize services.

- New To Role Peer Meetup: Making an Impact

Come together for a discussion with peers to discuss effective strategies for making an impact as a new to role I&O leader. Peer Meetups are networking sessions that allow you to connect and share with a small group of your peers, without Gartner facilitation. Please make every effort to attend your Peer Meetup as other attendees will be looking forward to meeting with you.

- 5 Keys to Success as a New Head of I&O

Taking on a new role as the head of I&O is tough, whether moving in from another enterprise or stepping up internally, with multiple stakeholders across IT and the business who all have demands from you and are waiting for you to deliver. In this session, we set out five key areas to focus on during your first year in role to help you succeed and grow your career.

- Ask the Expert: What Heads of I&O Can Do to Make an Immediate Impact

New heads of I&O are under immense pressure to demonstrate success early in their tenure. This session describes the top 3 actionable steps they can take to make their organizations successful.

- Ask the Expert: Elevating Infrastructure and Operations to the Boardroom

CIOs and infrastructure and operations leaders feel that boardroom stakeholders often overlook crucial IT I&O issues. To address this, CIOs and I&O leaders should strategically introduce these topics in boardroom discussions, highlighting their importance and establishing clear connections to both tangible and intangible business priorities.

- I&O Skills: What's Needed Now, What's Needed in the Future

Today's teams frequently lack the skills required to proactively meet business needs. The rapid pace of ongoing transformations renders existing skills inadequate for many organizations. I&O leaders must prioritize development plans to cultivate the most essential skills within their teams. This session provides guidance on effective upskilling methods that benefit both employees and organizations.
