Elevate identity as a key discipline in 2025

Gain actionable business and technology insights into the challenges of adapting identity and access management (IAM) controls to agentic AI, multicloud and hybrid environments, resource optimization pressures and increasingly complex threat landscape.

In the face of geopolitical volatility and economic uncertainties, IAM is at the core of business operations and cybersecurity, ensuring resilience through secure interactions among people, machines and organizations. As digital innovations like cloud computing and AI advance, IAM adapts to counter emerging cyberthreats. Gartner Identity & Access Management Summit 2025 provides leaders and architects with guidance on building scalable and efficient IAM infrastructures in today's complex environment.

“A system of systems continuously evolves in structure, function and purpose, as it adapts and grows. Hence, identity architects need to direct their efforts on developing a practical IAM architecture, based on modern identity fabric principles that guide the implementation of scalable and resilient IAM controls.”

Homan Farahmand

Vice President and IAM Conference Chair

Join us for the premier conference for IAM and cybersecurity leaders.

What's new for 2026?

- New track: Visibility and Observability. Addressing the emerging topics of visibility and observability, this track provides insight into topics including workload identity management, AI agents, addressing IAM technical debt, data management for IAM, intelligence platforms, hygiene and more.
- New track: Cybersecurity and Enablement. Digitalization, zero trust, generative AI, cloud migration and organizational dependencies have placed identity at the core of business and cybersecurity strategy. Learn to bridge IAM and cybersecurity by understanding risks, controls and communicating strategies.
- New spotlight track: Agentic AI and Emerging Technologies. Discuss strategies for navigating an evolving tech landscape and how to build access control for AI agents. Learn about trends and other emerging technologies such as decentralized identity and verifiable credentials.
- Demonstrations and sessions led by OpenID. Join demonstrations by the AuthZen working group and two new sessions covering Authorization and CAEP.
- Women in Identity Luncheon. Join this networking opportunity to discuss the journey, experiences and motivations for choosing and staying in the IAM field. This opportunity is open to all.
- Expanded networking opportunities. Collaborate and build impactful connections in Peer Meetups and networking opportunities throughout the conference.

Agenda tracks

- A IAM Program Management and Leadership
Organizations should embrace an "identity-first business strategy" for operational efficiency and competitive edge. This track offers guidance on creating and maintaining a formal IAM program, vital for supporting business and cybersecurity goals.
- B Access Management and Authentication
Access management enables secure and resilient access for anyone or anything to anywhere. This track provides insight into identity verification, authentication, authorization, MFA, single sign-on, identity federation and API access.
- C Identity Governance and Administration (IGA)
This track provides insight into best practices and enhancement on ways to improve your IGA initiative to enable user access quickly while hardening security posture and access compliance.
- D Privileged Access Management (PAM)
This track provides the latest on PAM evolution for a variety of use cases such as endpoint and back-end administrative access, privileged remote access, and machine identities for connectivity and automation. Find out why PAM has become one of the most critical cybersecurity capabilities.
- E Visibility and Observability
Discovery and visibility can enhance the effectiveness of IAM teams and strengthen an organization's security posture. Observability can enhance an organization's ability to quickly detect and respond to threats. This track provides insight into enabling discovery, identity and access data platforms, and identity and access intelligence.

Spotlight tracks

- Agentic AI and Emerging Technologies
This track discusses advanced topics that bring you to the leading edge of IAM innovation. Join us to discuss how GenAI and agentic AI will change the human-IAM interaction model or how to build access control for AI agents.
- Technical Insights and Standards
This track encompasses a collection of deeper technical design, best practices and insights, tailored to help architects, analysts, engineers, consultants, technologists or IAM professionals who are looking for additional inspiration.

“No other conference has me glued to my seat, session after session. The combination of insights, practical solutions, foundational education, predictions, solution provider interactions and thought-provoking ideas sends me home with actionable plans. ...Gartner is worth the investment and well worth the time.”
